

ONTHEGO

News for Southern California
Commuters

Riding Transit? Mask Up!

Although the State of California lifted its mask mandate on June 15, riders and drivers on public transit must still wear a mask that covers the nose and mouth.

That's because the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) has extended its face mask requirement through Sept. 13 across all transportation networks throughout the U.S, including buses, rail and trains (and planes).

Many bus systems—including Metro and OC Bus—provide free masks aboard buses or at transit stations for those who need them.

Get Discounts with “Eat Shop Play”

Sign up to get deals and discounts at Santa Ana restaurants, shopping, entertainment and more at octa.net/EatShopPlay.

You'll also receive coupons and learn about unique one-of-a-kind events.

The Eat Shop Play program supports local businesses impacted by construction along the path of the OC Streetcar.

Did You Know...?

It's only $10 to ride all day, anywhere Metrolink goes, on Saturdays and Sundays. Kids under 18 ride free (up to three per paying adult).

To discover Southern California destinations Metrolink trains can take you to, visit metrolinktrains.com/explore/.

Free Bike Classes

Free classes throughout Los Angeles County offer hands-on learning on many aspects of bike riding, including bike safety and maintenance, how to change a flat tire and rules of the road.

For a list of upcoming classes and to register, visit metro.net/riding/go-bike/.

In Brief

New Metro Schedules Now Underway

Metro now offers more frequent service on many of its routes—in particular in the San Fernando and San Gabriel valleys.

See the full list of changes at metro.net.

Moovin' It on Omnitrans

Tickets for Omnitrans buses can now be purchased on the Moovit app. After a short, one-time registration process, with a few clicks, your tickets will be in your hand.

For details and to buy Omnitrans fares, visit moovitapp.com.

Half-Price Fares on VC Intercity Buses

Effective July 1, Ventura County Transportation Commission (VCTC) is resuming fare collection on Intercity buses. As a special promotion, prices will be half off the regular per-trip fare through Dec. 31.

Get details and fare options at goventura.org or call 800-438-1112.

OnTheGo for Commuters is a service of your county transportation agencies.